

IMPORTANT NOTICE
for the attention of all members of the SIS and those interested in taking up membership of the Society

In view of difficulties experienced with the Society's current bankers, the executive committee of the SIS has decided to move the Society's accounts to another bank. It is hoped the process of setting up new Direct Debit arrangements and an online payment facility will be completed by the end of November. When the relevant documentation becomes available, a new Direct Debit mandate form will be posted on this website alongside the membership form. In the meantime, payment by cheque would be appreciated.

It is hoped that the move to the new bank will mean that an improved service can be offered to members. In circumstances in which the treasurer (who is also membership secretary) has been preoccupied with the difficulties referred to (one of which has been the lack of account information), it has not always been possible to respond to membership queries, or to do so with any certainty.

The need to change the Society's bank account is regrettable, in that it means asking members who pay their subscription by Direct Debit or Standing Order to cancel their existing arrangements and complete a new mandate. I apologize to members for this, especially to those who have recently gone to the trouble of arranging payment of their subscription by this method. The hope is that improved efficiency will compensate for the necessary inconvenience this involves. Thank you for your patience and forbearance. Once the new arrangements are in place, fuller information will be circulated to members and made available on this site.
